

Affidavits of Default

- The court will generally hold orders granting relief pursuant to an affidavit of default for seven days before acting on them to afford an opportunity for adversely affected parties either to contest the affidavit's veracity or move for expansion of the defaulted deadline. Persons considering those courses should review Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure 9011 and 9006(b).